Conclusion/Brief comment:

This application is to raise the ridge height, erect a first-floor extension to the rear, add rooflights to the rear roof slope and two pitched roof dormers and a central balcony to the front elevation.

Policy GP8, amongst other things, expects new development to achieve a good standard of architectural design, to make the most effective and efficient use of land and to respect the character of the local built environment. It highlights that multi-storey buildings are a more efficient use of land than single storey buildings and it states that development proposals should consider a multi-storey design from the outset unless there are overriding reasons why this design approach would be unacceptable within a particular locality.

Policy GP8 expect proposals to achieve a high standard of design which respects and where possible enhances the character of the environment. GP13 supports development where there are no significant adverse effects on the amenities of neighbouring properties. Both policies provide for a high degree of personal choice on design matters in less sensitive areas (outside of Conservation Areas and not affecting the setting of protected buildings).

This style and age of dwelling often has rooms in the roof with dormer windows and rooflights and the proposal to raise the roof is considered to represent efficient and effective use of land. The front central balcony at second floor level will give views to the coast eastward and into the neighbours front gardens, which are not considered to be private amenity spaces, and therefore considered acceptable. The pitched roof dormers and rear roof lights will not result in unacceptable overlooking or loss of privacy to adjoining occupiers in this case.

The rear first floor extension is an in-fill, allowing the existing first floor extension to run the full length of the property and reflects the design and appearance of the existing flat roof extension. The extension is to the rear of the property, will not be highly publicly visible and the nearest neighbours are enough of a distance away to not be affected by the extension in terms of overshadowing or the new first floor window which is a small secondary window to serve a bedroom.

The proposals are not considered to have any detrimental impacts on the character and appearance of the surrounding area, nor will they affect neighbour amenity.

Confirmation has been received that the development proposed has been designed to take into account matters of energy efficiency and current Building Regulations in accordance with Policy GP9.

The proposals are considered to conform to the above policies of the Island Development Plan and grant of permission is recommended, subject to conditions.

All material considerations as set out in the Land Planning and Development (Guernsey) Law, 2005 and the Land and Planning (General Provisions) Ordinance 2007 have been taken into account in the assessment of this application.
