Conclusion/Brief comment:

The agricultural land to the south of the proposed access previously formed part of a larger field. Planning permission has been granted under the Island Development Plan to change the use of sections of this former larger field to domestic land and these areas are now under separate ownership. As a result, the area of agricultural land to the south of the proposed access is currently fragmented and landlocked. The proposal to create an access to the adjoining agricultural land to the north will increase the potential agricultural use of the land. The proposal accords with Policy OC5(B).

The design of the access is appropriate within its setting and would have no adverse effects on the openness and landscape character of the area.

All material considerations as set out in the Land Planning and Development (Guernsey) Law, 2005 and the Land and Planning (General Provisions) Ordinance 2007 have been taken into account in the assessment of this application.

It is recommended that the application is approved.
