Conclusion/Brief comment:

It is a requirement under the Land Planning and Development (Guernsey) Law, 2005, when considering applications affecting protected buildings, to secure so far as possible that the special historic, architectural, traditional or other special characteristics (including setting) are preserved. This duty is reflected in Policy GP5 of the IDP.

Policy IP11 states that proposals for small scale infrastructure will be supported where this would contribute to the maintenance and support of efficient and sustainable infrastructure and accords with other relevant policies of the Plan.

In terms of design (Policy GP8), the size, siting and material of the enclosure is considered to have a negligible effect on visual amenity or the character of the area. It is understood that the enclosure will sit on the concrete plinth and will not require the removal of landscaping that surrounds the site.

The installation of a GRP enclosure in this location is not considered to have a significant detrimental effect on the setting of the protected building. Although in the interests of visual amenity and to preserve the setting of the protected building which includes the outbuilding and roadside granite wall, it is reasonable to ensure that the colour of the enclosure is finished in dark green, black or dark grey via condition. It is considered that these colours are less likely to 'draw the eye', particularly as GRP is likely to fade in ultraviolet light in years to come, making the lighter green even lighter.

The GRP enclosure itself is not considered to have a significant detrimental impact on the amenities of neighbouring residents

Sufficient information has been submitted that has taken into account the criteria of Policy GP9 (Sustainable Development).

All material considerations as set out in the Land Planning and Development (Guernsey) Law, 2005 and the Land and Planning (General Provisions) Ordinance 2007 have been taken into account in the assessment of this application.

Based on the above, the application is considered compliant with the relevant Island Development Plan policies; it is therefore recommended that planning permission be granted, subject to conditions.
