Consultation

Office of Environmental Health and Pollution Regulation – would have recommended a full planning condition had a consultation request been sent as part of the 2020 application as concerns exist regarding contamination from heavy metals and pesticides that remain in the soil from this industry and in order to address the matter at this current stage a discovery strategy condition is recommended.

Conclusion/Brief comment:

This is a retrospective application to reinstate the previous approval, see planning history above. In this case, building works begun after the three-year permission had expired.

There have been no changes to planning policies or in and around the site, other than the demolition of the glasshouse which did not require planning permission, therefore the proposals are still considered to comply with policy.

The proposals achieve a good standard of design, using materials which complement the existing materials. The extension will provide adequate levels of sunshine and daylight, and give the occupiers more flexible and adaptable accommodation.

The scale and massing of the new extension is not considered to have a detrimental effect on the character and amenity of the surrounding area, nor will it have any impact on either of the immediate neighbours.

The comments of Environmental Health have been noted and it is reasonable to impose the discovery strategy condition, highlighting the matter of possible soil contamination.

Confirmation has been received that the development proposed has been designed to take into account matters of energy efficiency and current Building Regulations in accordance with Policy GP9.

The proposals are considered to conform to the above policies of the Island Development Plan and grant of permission is recommended, subject to conditions.

All material considerations as set out in the Land Planning and Development (Guernsey) Law, 2005 and the Land Planning and Development (General Provisions) Ordinance, 2007 have been taken into account in the assessment of this application.
